Foreword

The war clouds which last year hung low on the horizon have now brought the storm. Never before in our generation has any university class faced the uncertain perplexity we now face. Today we are together as undergraduates. Tomorrow we will be on the battlefield in some line of defense . . . The war which is now a grim reality has made great and lasting changes all about us. This edition of your ARTEMISIA is, of necessity, a war issue. Forced to "streamline" because of rising costs, and decreasing advertising budgets, we have tried to include those common well-remembered, every-day bits of campus life which will make you remember faces, scenes, and events in the long years ahead. For this reason we have sometimes had to sacrifice artistic value to the higher purpose of lasting reality . . . When we become alumni it is hoped that memories, happy and nostalgic, will be revived by this 1942 issue of the ARTEMISIA.

PROFESSOR ALBERT ELLSWORTH HILL

Dedication

Professor and head of the Department of English; faculty advisor for the ARTEMISIA; "patron saint" of Chi Delta Phi, English honorary society; indefatigable reader; inspiring teacher, understanding humorist; and general good fellow—Professor Albert Ellsworth Hill.

"Now, let's see . . ."

As an undergraduate at the University of Chicago, Professor Hill studied under such distinguished men as Dr. Manley and Robert Herrick. His great interest in literature, coupled with his excellent background, makes him a most enjoyable professor. His New England background and ancestry give his courses in American Literature an added tang of realism. Among his favorites are Wordsworth, of whose work he admits "devouring avidly, often at the neglect of my other undergraduate studies," and Shakespeare, of whose work he is both a capable professor and student . . . He has served this institution and its students for nearly thirty years, giving unflagging and inspiring aid both to the English Department and the ARTEMISIA. To one who has dedicated himself to us, we dedicate this issue of our yearly chronicle.

PRESIDENT LEON W. HARTMAN

President's Message

Another year passes in review! Again we appraise the events of the past year and on Life's ledger we credit and debit the events of 1941. Last year war clouds hung low along the horizon and the storm seemed to be close at hand; today the storm in all its fury is upon us and war is a grim reality. Each one of us now beholds a changed situation. Our sons, our brothers, our relatives and our friends are being summoned to defend the Nation . . . In the midst of the changes which are now taking place about us, we note the great emphasis which is placed upon the thoroughly-trained and well-educated man. There is an insistent and incessant demand for the technical expert, be he mathematician, physicist, chemist or engineer. Youth, recognizing its opportunities, its responsibilities, and its obligations, is clamoring for training along these special technical lines. Not so long ago it was the fashion among certain groups to discount and disparage high scholarship and thorough training; but, when tested by the exacting standards imposed by war it is found that the man who best meets and satisfies the demands of the present emergency, is he who in his college days was most thorough and diligent in his studies . . . The college man of today realizes, as never before, that he is part of the social order into which he was born and that from this day forward until peace is secured he will spend his life in a world dominated by the forces of destruction. During his brief sojourn at the university he must prepare, so far as is possible, both for war and for the aftermath of war—the problem of peace. Although the collegian constitutes but one per cent of our population, he knows only too well that, like it or not, in the world of tomorrow leadership will be thrust upon him. The educated youth of today takes seriously the call to service, and he knows that the summons will surely come to every trained man. A new standard of values now dominates his purposes for he cannot ignore the immediate present or the teachings of history. He dare not fail to secure for himself the best possible training for inevitable leadership . . . It seems reasonably certain that the one institution of our present civilization which will survive the longest is our system of education. It will change, as will all our institutions, but it will survive. This is, therefore, no time to be overcome by a sense of futility. Now, if ever, is the time for this generation to make the supreme effort; now, if ever, is the time for every man to place his shoulder to the wheel and exert his utmost effort. The defense tasks which confront the nation require the best thought and effort of all trained and educated men . . . The problems of the present and of the future constitute a challenge. Even though he knows that the race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong, youth strips for the race and girds himself for the battle, to insure that liberty shall not perish from the earth.

So nigh is grandeur to our dust,

So near is God to man,

When Duty whispers low, Thou must,

The youth replies, I can.

GERALDINE HARDMAN, Secretary to the President

SILAS ROSS, Chairman

Board of Regents

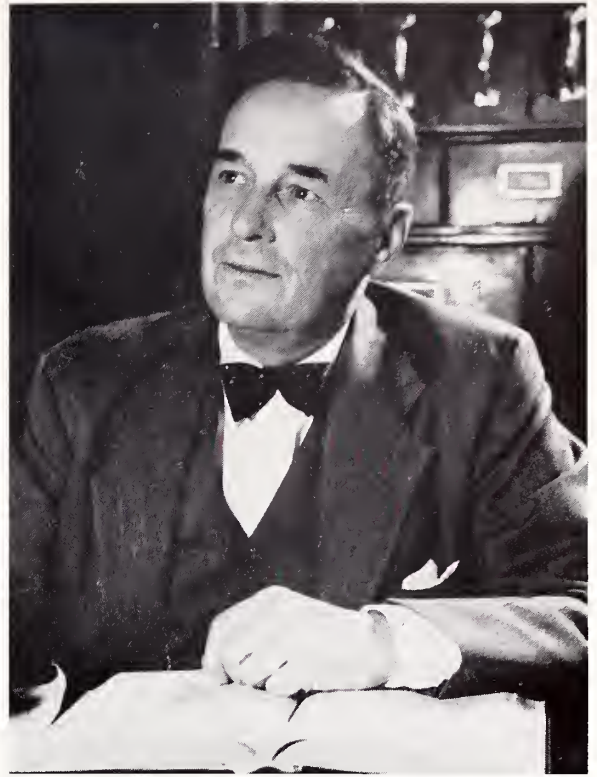

Obtaining the necessary government priorities on materials essential to completion of the long-sought gymnasium; offering a special ten-week summer session as part of the regular undergraduate work; granting leave-of-absence to drafted instructors, and finding substitutes, have been the largest tasks of the year . . . The board, consisting now of four men and one woman who hold office for four years, has among its duties selecting the president, confirming teacher recommendations, governing finance, and the guiding of Nevada's policies.

Economic Control

A newly-added task, that of University Vice-President, has given the comptroller added responsibility: taking, tabulating, and spending wisely and well the University monies; shifting purchase and expenditure to conform with government restrictions, buying the necessary materials for the gym., and acting as president during the six-weeks absence of Dr. Hartman. Comptroller Gorman has perfected his own excellent system of bookkeeping.

CHARLES H. GORMAN, Comptroller

JEANETTE RHODES, Registrar

Tabulation of registration results each semester of this year revealed the effects of the world crisis in student enrollment. Full semester figures of 1001 were cut to 835 in the spring, as compared to 1141 and 1044 respectively for last year. New regulations providing full credit for seven weeks' satisfactory class work, and, for those of last semester senior standing, graduation after satisfactory completion of ten weeks' class work, given to all taken into defense or armed service, have increased the work of Registrar Rhodes.

The Six

Margaret E. Mack, amiable and capable Dean of Women and professor of biology, has as her job the guidance of Artemisia Hall, campus coeds, the N.Y.A., and the social calendar committee. Possessed of an excellent judgment, versatile personality, and gracious manner, Dean Mack is universally respected and admired. Dean Reuben C. Thompson, possessor of infectious smile and fund of jokes, is, nevertheless, a person with whom to reckon in his positions as head of the Student Affairs Committee, Dean of Men, and Professor of Philosophy. Taking over his duties for the first time this year, newly appointed Dean Palmer has already proved himself a popular and successful Dean of Engineering, and has helped to secure for the college a national rating, while carrying on his own work in electrical engineering.

Deans

Confronted with the problems of some five hundred Arts and Science students, Dean Frederick Wood has spent much of his time and energy in their behalf, and has become a popular student counselor. Despite this, he still takes a great deal of pride in his special department, that of Mathematics. . . . Being a research scientist, as well as a Dean, gives Robert Stewart special recognition. A successful soil specialist, Dean Stewart of the Agriculture College, both as a teacher and a practical agriculturist, urges the importance of the land in our world today . . . An unusual man in an unusual position characterizes Dean Traner of the School of Education. He not only trains the only "home-grown" teachers in the state, but he is Director of the Teacher Appointment Service which places them in the field. Thus Nevada is assured of the best possible teachers for the job, and the graduates of the College of Education are assured of the best possible position.

Student Affairs

A. S. U. N.

Reorganizing campus activities, eliminating those which existed in name only, conducting and presenting more and better assembly programs, and placing students on newly organized student affairs and health service committees constituted the major portion of the Associated Student of the University of Nevada (A.S.U.N.), led by the very capable president, Charles Mapes. Pep rallies, Pan Hellenic Skit Day, Interfraternity Day, Campus Personalities in movies, South American film, Engineers Day Assembly and Masque and Dagger Day were topped by the War Convocation held March 20. This last included a review of the R.O.T.C. by the Governor; summation of Nevada's and the University's war effort by Governor Carville, President Hartman, Charles Mapes, and Professor Martie; and the showing of recently released war films. As we go to press, ballots are being cast for constitutional amendments which will place Nevada on war footing, and permit underclassmen to replace upperclassmen as leaders of student government if necessary.

The fall presentation of Miss Zelda Reed, alumnae of Nevada, and former correspondent for the Daily Telegraph of Sydney, Australia, in a timely lecture of her adventures in, and life on, the island of Tahiti and the Australian continent; and the annual spring fashion show, a scholarship money-maker, were year's highlights of the Associated Women's Students' program . . . Close cooperation with the A.S.U.N. was maintained through the executive council, composed of women senators, which met every two weeks to discuss student policy in its direct relation to the coeds of the campus. A.W.S. is a national organization of undergraduate women. The Nevada chapter is under the successful direction of Alice Martha Traner, Pi Beta Phi, who has, this year, instituted a policy of requiring a file of all women's organization constitutions, so closer coordination may result.

Graduate Authority

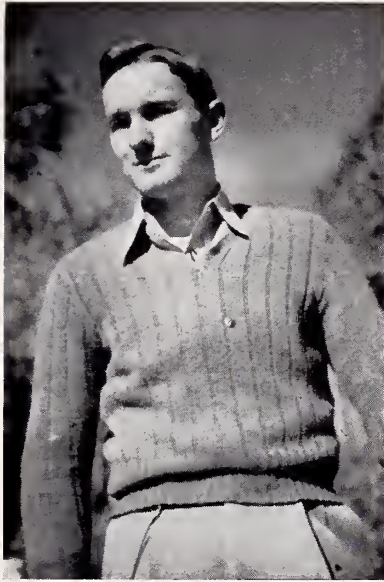

Graduate Manager Joe McDonnell, this year, has handled through his central office the accounts of sixty student organizations. In addition he serves as "middle-man" for student and faculty groups . . . Alumni

President Quilici has as his major task the effort to persuade all graduating seniors to paid up membership. The task is doubly difficult this year, as is another of the alumni group, that of keeping track of old grads.

Opening the fall semester with appointment of Ed Grundel, Cliff Young, and Warren Ferguson as a memorial committee to honor recently deceased Dean Fredrick Sibley; and adopting a resolution to erect a plaque in the New Engineering building as a memorial to Dean Sibley were first tasks of a 1941-42 student Senate. In late fall the vigorous Senate burst a bombshell over our activity-minded campus — complete investigation of all campus organizations. This resulted in reclassification of all, elimination of those inactive, or not considered justified in their existence.

Four clubs were dropped from the recognized list, several placed on probation, and all service clubs assigned definite tasks to eliminate duplication of effort. Added impetus was given to the remaining clubs to accomplish new feats, for the committee, consisting of Harriet Morrison, Allan

McGill, Ed Mulcahy, and Alice Martha Traner, has remained on guard the rest of the year . . . Rearrangement of Friday class schedules to provide a free hour for regularly scheduled assemblies has allowed the student body an increased number of varied, interesting, and timely programs.

Striving for closer cooperation between the administration and student government, the senate succeeded in placing student members on such important university committees as the state N.Y.A. council, and University health service committee, each of which now has two student representatives. The senate, composed of representatives from each fraternity, sorority, and independent group, and the A.S.U.N. president as presiding officer, meets regularly each second and fourth Thursday. Last act of the school year is the picnic when judicial dignity steals off to "take five" before retiring from office.

Committees

Finance Control Board was faced this year with the problem of budgeting approximately one-third less student money among the same number of student projects. Forced to cut minor sports from the budget, they later revised their decision to allow skiing, wrestling and tennis some support . . . Appointment of a student committee to investigate and report on the sixty-odd existing organizations and recommend changes or non-recognition as deemed warranted, was main executive committee task. Successful completion involved cutting the number of recognized organizations to three-fourths of the original number, and giving those remaining a new vigor to justify their existence . . . Nominating committee completed its usual routine work of discussing and recommending names of those considered most eligible for all student government and committee positions. Included are Homecoming, Rally, Election Board, Ski Carnival and Mackay Day committees, as well as student body and class officers.

Committees

Enforcement of tradition was rigid and unyielding, with the Men's Upperclass Committee entering into the spirit of immovable decision. Three lakings, numerous fines, and innumerable "swats" were administered, with even the A.S.U.N. President coming in on the receiving end of the leather paddle, due to breaking beard-growing tradition . . . The cups, steps, sidewalk and lawn received their usual feminine touch in caretaking as punishment for offenders of womanly tradition. Student body skits were enlivened by the histrionic efforts of the campus cutters, senior bench sitters, and bowless, bibleless freshman women . . . Publications Board, governing body for yearbook and newspaper, supervised policies of both, bought a new typewriter, held annual fall and spring banquets, and appointed editors and business managers for both publications during spring semester. The board consists of a faculty member, the four publication heads, three student members who are the voting element, and, as ex-officio members, the A.S.U.N. president and graduate manager.

JAY GIBSON, Class Manager

Managed by Jay Gibson, the class of '42 has at last progressed to the high, exclusive "Senior Week and cap-and-gown" stage they so longingly visioned in 1938 . . . Freshmen year: "Frosh Thaw," first week-long orientation classes, painting the N in snow and sleet, and beating the Sophs on Field Day . . . Sophomore year: Seaborn takes over, we become the Vigilantes, first underclass dance our innovation, first class picnic, a huge success . . . Junior year: Hawley is the manager, Junior Prom a fall event, cords allowed! We've half the upperclass committee and, to top it off, Junior Cut Day and Senior Ball . . . A class of innovators, a class to go into a world of history in the making, and help make it.

JOHN GABRIELLI, Class Manager

Following the lead of Class Manager John Gabrielli, Nevada's third-year students began a highly successful year with the Junior Prom for which an unusually large and efficient committee formed many a blister rolling cotton snowballs and constructing the artistic wishing-well, as background for an enjoyable, financially well-managed dance. Spurred by the outcome of their initial efforts, they went on to greater glory by becoming leaders of many organizations, a feat very unusual in school tradition. Second collective activity was assertion of growing independence evidenced by general absence on Junior Cut Day in April, when tradition was upheld, school ignored, and a picnic enjoyed by the class.

Sophomores

WILLIAM SHAW, Class Manager

Beginning the year with a "splash" the newly-appointed Vigilantes and the sturdy freshman offenders enthusiastically ducked one another in Manzanita Lake, despite which inconclusive start, the campus traditions were effectively maintained by committee members John Hawkins, John Gould, Robert Crowell, Wesley Morrison, Dick Waldman, Don O'Hagan, John Gamble, Noel Willis, James Melarkey, Bill Morse, Richard Meffley, Paul Tholl, John Hattala, Tom Kot, Walter Riggie, Alex Lemberes, John Warren, Carl Digino, Buck White and Jac Shaw . . . Second event looming large in importance was the combined underclass dance, held in the gymnasium during the fall semester. Darkly guarded "secret" theme proved to be a "hole," significance of which was explained as "We always end up in the hole after these, so why not begin here?"

Spring highlight was traditional underclass picnic held in April, after which, to all intents, that "upperclass" feeling begins to prevail. Outstanding item in class history was the large number of sophomores participating in important campus activities: athletics, drama, debate, and serving on student committees.

JAMES GOODIN, Class Manager

Although one of the smallest yearling classes in several years, the class of '45 made its presence very much felt and enjoyed. First consciousness of dinks and bibles soon wore off to a minimum, with only tradition-breakers appearing at all startling . . . Initiation to campus service came to the women in the "Buy a Brick" campaign, yearly event. Over 460 bricks were sold. The men were included soon in the fall whitewashing of the N, and, in the spring semester, all had fingers crossed for lime priorities gave vague hope of reprieve. Lime was procured . . . Underclass dance showed campus first glimpse of the class social abilities, and was highly successful.

President and Mrs. Hartman gave Frosh reception; orientation talks on "How to Study," and related subjects were faculty contribution; and an introduction to the campus by student leaders on annual frosh trek gave flying start to the class—our hope for the future—that we can "Keep 'em flying."

Nevada's twenty-second annual Homecoming opened October 16, with traditional band concert and Phi Sigma Kappa street dance. Friday brought alumni luncheons and teas, bonfire rally and Wolves Frolic. Rally highlights were talks by Alumni Prexy Beemer, Football Captains Schlager and Goodner, Coaches Aiken and "Rabbit" Bradshaw, and Vice-President Gorman. Frolic winners were Lambda Chi "English Garden" and Pi Beta Phi "Charm School" . . . Saturday events, moving Winding up an exciting weekend of snowbite, stiff legs, ski titles and general merriment, the sixth annual Ski Ball was held at the State Building, with Queen Ulery the presiding diety. Elected from among the visiting ski beauties, Miss Ulery presented all trophies, and guided the proceedings at a most popular annual function.

Social angle of military life at Nevada manifests itself in the annual Military Ball, presided over by an honorary major elected by the members of Scabbard and Blade to serve at all public military functions, march with the unit, and make presentations. Harriet Morrison, Delta Delta Delta, led the festivities and will continue in command for the 1942-43 year.

The Mackay Day celebration, started in commemoration of Clarence Mackay's interest, generosity, and activity in furthering the welfare of the University, was held April 10-11, 1942. Unusual note was constant presence of "Life" photographer at all functions. Interest points were Friday's "fraternity starred" assembly; laking of tradition-breakers, featured by Student Body President Mapes' splash; sorority open-house; radio broadcast, and Saturday's campus cleanup; luncheon, and dance . . . With Alan Bible, graduate and deputy U.S. District Attorney for Nevada, as speaker, presentation of a picture of John Mackay by his granddaughter, Mrs. Robert Zeimer Hawkins, plus awards, and song-team competition, the luncheon presided

Engineers' Day

Annual affair, this year held March 14, was a great success, despite perverse snow-storm. For the first time, the celebration was held in cooperation with the agriculture and home economics students assisting. Impressive and startling exhibits included one million orchid seeds; synthetic rubber making; diesel engines; native Nevada tin; model bridge and roadway; electrical phenomena, i.e., turning on lights with a touch of the hand to bare wire, and creation of neon, apparently unassisted. Feminine displays showed best way to any man's heart, plus practical suggestions for solving war ration problems . . . Aggies won Saviers revolving trophy for best exhibits.

V for Victory was the ARTEMISIA keynote and a necessary one! Rising costs, decreasing budget, an unexpected seventy-page cut in book size made in January, created problems arising both naturally and suddenly to trip the unwary staff. Cooperation from every staff member and the students themselves in every phase of the work was the determining factor in completion of the job. Special mention is due to Walter Riggie, associate editor; Mary Hill, senior editor; Yvonne Rosasco, assistant editor; Mildred Riggie, art editor; Jayne Creel, photography editor; Helen Delich, writeup editor; Morris Gallagher and Warren Hursh, mounting assistants . . . In making this "war issue" a faithful reproduction of scenes and events of the year, we have emphasized military, honorary, and class phases of school life, and decreased attention toward scenes, beauty, art work, snapshots, and society.

Artemisia

The publication of the 1942 ARTEMISIA was one of the most difficult in the history of the book. Advertising went down, prices went up to approximately seven dollars per page more than last year, student body enrollment decreased sharply, and the budget was cut. The business staff, working overtime, managed to reach the necessary quota through the aid of the local merchants who advertised if possible, despite uncertain business conditions. Thanks go to all those who put in ads, sponsor signatures, county advertisements, sorority, fraternity and organization panels, and to the University of Nevada and the Board of Regents.

Sage

The editorial policy of the Sagebrush was strictly conservative this year, and featured only news and written comment of interest to students, faculty and friends of the university. Under the stimulus of war time, the campus weekly expanded periodically into fields of national importance. "Nevada is your institution . . . love it, honor it and support it" was the oft-raised battle-cry.

brush

"They won't go in this week!" is the sad song of the business staff of the Sagebrush in a year of priorities, little money, unsettled business, and general gloom. Perseverance and cooperation surmounted this difficulty to allow weekly publication of a four to six-page paper efficiently provided for. Minor crisis caused by the marriage of the business manager, Cantlon, late in spring semester, was avoided by successful carrying-on of Deane Quilici, Junior business manager.

Reserve Officers

COLONEL BERTRAM

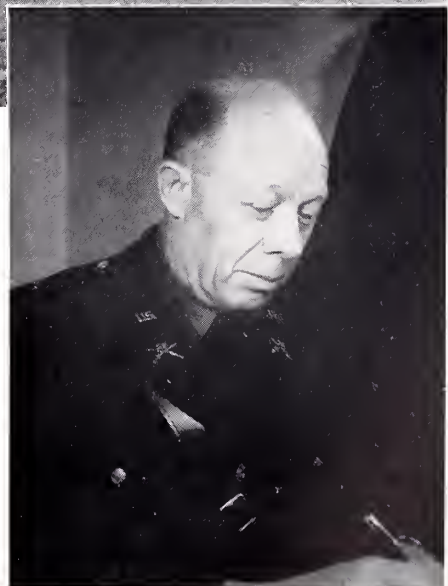

A complete revision of the military department, placing Perry C. Pollock as cadet battalion commander, opened the year's activities. In September, eighteen promotions were given, and the year was in full swing. Unusual circumstances created by the swiftly-developing war situation opened new vacancies when several senior officers were called to active duty. Pollock, one of these, was replaced by James Rookus as lieutenant colonel and cadet battalion commander in January. Frances Nagle received promotion to cadet major and executive officer . . . increasing number allowed in advanced courses from 41 to 50, although applications still far exceed the quota. New officers must now teach at least ten hours of basic classes as work toward the commissions in the officers' reserve corps received upon graduation . . . Duties this year were: Policing Mackay stadium during games, marching in Army Day parade, Armistice parade, Homecoming parade and participating in regularly scheduled reviews.

MAJOR GENT

Training Corps

A tribute was paid retiring commander Colonel Oral E. Clark when the men of the cadet battalion marched in review to commemorate his completion of 33 years of army service . . . Two concluding functions of the year were the annual spring inspection, this year by Lieutenant Colonel Thomas O. Harris of Reno

Wolves' Frolic

Starring women in fraternity skits, including female impersonators, a masculine kick chorus, cap-and-gown glamor girls, and Indian village scenes, the annual Homecoming show proved itself once again, tops in campus variety. Pi Bet Phi winners were Prof. Prescott and her collegiate chorus, while Lambda Chi Alpha "Country Garden" episode crowned fraternity efforts. Theta's "Christmas Eve Toy Shop" and the S.A.E. hefty ballet were close seconds. New feature in ballroom dances to augment regular kick chorus added zest to a hit show.

Tony Draws a Horse

With one of the best casts in play production history, "Tony Draws a Horse," Lesley Storm's prize-winning play, was presented in the fall semester. Tony, who never appears, draws a horse on the wall outside his doctor-father's consulting-room door. Father's (Tom Buckman) anger precipitates a quarrel with mother (Patsy Prescott), who returns to her mother. Grandfather (Bob Bruce) becomes righteously indignant in behalf of Tony, becomes spifflicated, and lands in jail, after losing his pants in defending free speech. Mother goes on a harmless excursion to Dieppe with her sister's fiance (Bill Cochran). Finally Tony unconsciously restores relations by winning a child artist's content with a drawing entitled "Breakfast at Granny's" which convulses the family and makes Granny (Shirley Huber) swell with pride, when, as a matter of fact, she has been mercilessly lampooned.

The problems of a family with a problem child: Bob, Adey Mae, Shirley, Patsy and James express the degrees of concern in the family

Faculty Acts Up

Entertaining the campus in behalf of the Red Cross, the faculty came through in their usual grand style with the ancient but laugh-provoking "Charlie's Aunt." Led by Prof. Williams as the fake aunt, Bill Miller and Charles Duncan as the lovesick college boys, with Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Billings and Mrs. Beesley as the girl friends, the play moved swiftly and smoothly through the entire impossible situation to the dramatic denouement by the real Donna Lucia d'Alverdores, Mrs. Ryan. Professors Mazour, Brown, Butterworth and Mrs. Wilson turned in expert characterizations as the necessary background characters.

"May I pour for you, Mr. Spettigue?"

"My deah DEAH girl!"

"Not bad; not bad at all!"

Band

With a roster of fifty-five members, new outfits of light blue and white, five majorettes — Leonore Hill, Norma Anderson, Zelda Heitman, Wilma Dooner and Pauline Maloney — and plenty of spirit, the Nevada band completed a highly successful year . . . Playing for all football and basketball games, R.O.T.C. reviews, student body meetings, parades, and University events, the band has a busy schedule each year. This year's outstanding honor was given to Colonel Oral E. Clark, retiring head of military department and staunch friend and supported of the band . . . Advertising ability proved successful in using multi-colored slogan car to advertise the annual band dance held in the spring.

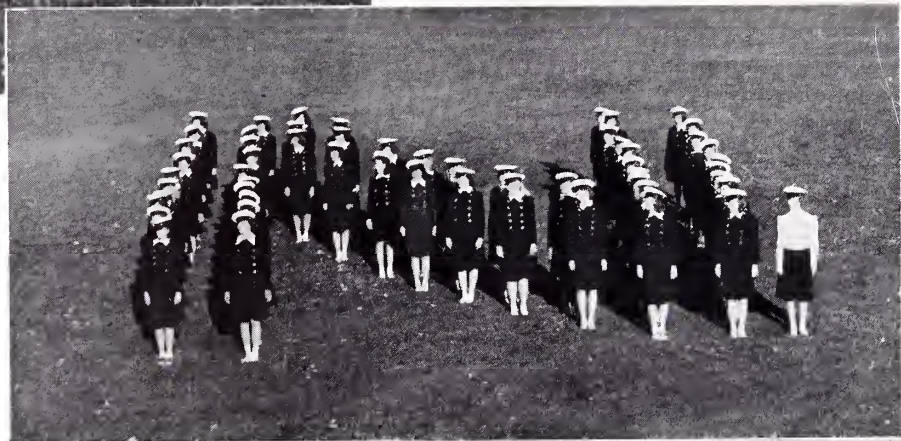

Prizewinning performers, the Nevada Band adds spirit to Homecoming, football games, basketball, Army Day, and all student functions. Marching formations, field demonstrations, and the music itself combine to form the perfect whole.

Organizations

Block N Society

Highest honorary society for major sport athletes, Block N was, this year, the first campus organization to purchase victory bonds through the graduate manager's office, buying two $100 and one $50 bond . . . Most stringent decision was the cancellation of Stag Night, annual wrestling and boxing event, for the current year, due to lack of material . . . Alumni life-passes were modified to seasonal cards renewable each year . . . Biggest single task of the society is co-approval, with executive board, of major athletic awards.

Scabbard and Blade

Climaxing a year of increased attention on military matters, Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity composed of cadet officers with Junior and Senior standing, presented the annual Military Ball, presided over by Honorary Major Harriet Morrison. For the first time, the former honorary major was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel Mary Jane McSorley, making her the only coed in the United States to receive this honor . . . Taking charge of all R.O.T.C. participation in parades, reviews, and recognition services is major task of the group . . . Most noticed event of year was initiation rite during which potential officers, clad in blue denim, guarded the campus, cleaned and polished the two guardian cannon, and engaged in mock combat.

Cap and Scroll

Assisting in the defense effort through collection of magazines from all campus buildings; giving aid to all women's organizations, and campus activities requesting it; and giving annual alumnae dinner, this year at the Colombo, were chief activities of Cap and Scroll . . . A Service organization, Cap and Scroll is composed of the upper ten per cent of the senior women who have excelled in scholarship, leadership, and have participated in three or more campus activities, leading in at least one.

EILEEN BUCK, President

Chi Delta Phi

Returning to prominence, after a year of little activity, Chi Delta Phi, this year, sponsored the annual high school poetry contest, awarding an honorary membership in the society as first prize. Creative writing discussion, Alumnae Night, "Your Favorite Novel Character" masquerade, annual social dinner given by Professor and Mrs. A. E. Hill, and travel lectures given by Mrs. Leland Hinckley about the Philippines, and Miss Margaret Ernst about South America, completed the year's activities . . . Membership requires a "B" average in English, high student body average, plus an interest and ability in creative writing.

Coffin and Keys

BRYN ARMSTRONG, President

Most mysterious of campus groups, Coffin and Keys is limited to upperclass membership, and has insignia of black and gold symbolic pin . . . Only known fact is members' regular appearance at student body meetings in traditional cap . . . Meetings, activities, requirements, or officers are rarely referred to, and then vaguely. General theory is that of designating it as a service group comparable to Cap and Scroll.

Delta Delta Epsilon

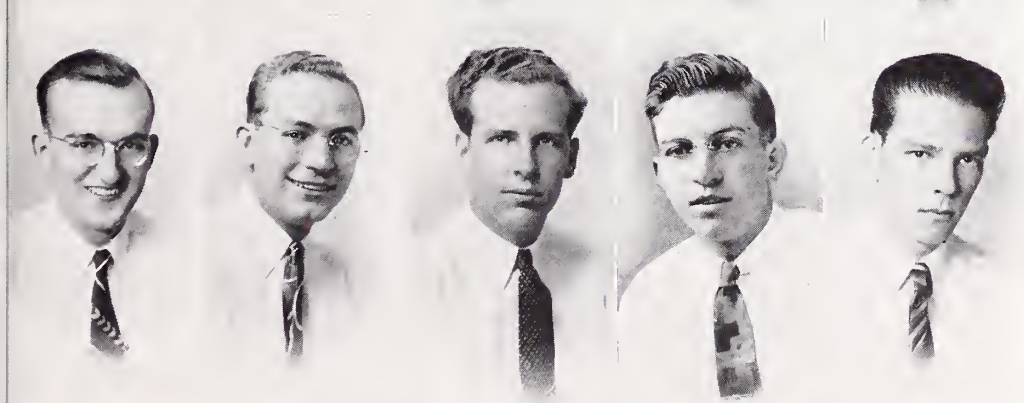

Furthering the interests of the Nevada Band, and their own interest in music, honoring interested friends of the band through election to membership are foremost aims of Delta Delta Epsilon, honorary band fraternity . . . Arrangements to take the band to the game at San Francisco State, and a dinner held in honor of Colonel Clark, retiring military department head and honorary member of the group, were this year's services. Several dinners are held each year . . . Delta Delta Epsilon was founded on the campus March 17, 1935, and has become one of the campus' most active groups.

TOM COOKE, President

Expanding its program this year, Forensic Key sponsored a ball to raise funds necessary to joining a national debating society, and plans are nearly complete . . . An organization of students who have qualified through representing the University in forensic meets, Forensic Key sponsors the annual High School Tourney, serving as judges of the debate contests. Semi-annual dinners are held, at which awards are made within the group itself . . . Local chapter was organized in 1933, and since its inception, debate has become a major activity, including intramural competition.

Gothic N

Superior female athletes, this year, planned a program destined to stimulate interest in athletics, and spur competitive spirit aimed toward membership. High school play-day meets were held, a tea for freshmen women at which athletic program and possibilities were outlined, and Homecoming reunion luncheon were chief interest-getters. General function of service is W.A.A. advisory board . . . Distinguishing marks, donned en masse each Friday, are blue jacket, white letter, and jewelled pin, the earning of which involves five semesters of active participation and superiority in athletics, membership in the W.A.A., general sportsmanship, and scholastic excellence. Crowning award is earning of Gothic "N" blanket at the close of the senior year. The organization was founded in 1910, and is perpetuated through election on Mackay Day.

Phi Kappa Phi

Election of six students to membership in the fall semester created an unprecedented situation in this top honorary scholastic society. Usual fall election allows two to four of the highest ranking senior students to membership, but the six elected rated so closely together, no satisfactory division could be made . . . Two more elections were held, one in February and one in May, so that total membership comprised one-eighth of the graduating senior class. Phi Kappa Phi day, this year, was featured by addresses from Dr. Smythe of the University of California concerning the European situation, of which he is an authority . . . Last event of the year is the banquet and speaker, of May 9, honoring all members. Faculty membership brings the total to approximately forty members. Mrs. Julian Mapes, not in panel, also was elected to membership this year.

Press Club

Activities of the Press Club this year included entertaining high school yearbook and newspaper editors and business managers at the annual press convention, during which round-table discussion, visits to printing and engraving plants, and lectures about problems concerning these publications were feature . . . Spring activity was dedication of a plaque commemorating the oldest newspaper in the state of Nevada . . . Qualifications are two years' experience on a publication, plus recommendation and election to membership in the spring.

Membership, limited to four delegates from each sorority and the independent group, requires enthusiasm, vitality, and an active interest in the welfare of the campus . . . New uniform, adopted this year, is white shirt and sweater, navy blue skirt, blue socks and white sport shoes.

Sundowners

LARRY CALLAHAN, President

Going into seclusion after the start of the fall semester, the Sundowners, men's goodfellowship "Knights of the Road" organization, remains unheralded and unsung until the spring semester, at which time the annual chicken chase breaks the silence, new members are initiated, and an overnight "trek" is indulged in.

Associated Engineers

JAMES BETT, President

Making the twenty-seventh annual Engineers' Day the most successful ever held on the Nevada campus while working in conjunction with the College of Agriculture was the outstanding achievement of the Associated Engineers group. Largest drawing card in the fall was the "Engineers' Brawl," novel annual dance. Meetings held throughout the year are sponsored alternately by each engineering college, which presents speakers, and films on engineering subjects . . . Organized to promote closer cooperation among the colleges in order to coordinate the work carried on, the A.I.A.E. has become a powerful and efficient body.

Housed in the newest and most attractive building on the campus, the Civil Engineers are now in a position to obtain rating as an accredited school, an honor previously denied as they had no building facilities of their own. Civil Engineering students regularly enrolled in the college are eligible for membership. Moving pictures, lectures, field trips, and intriguing exhibits at Engineers' Day show were signs of an enthusiastic group.

Electrical Engineers

JOHN KNEMEYER, President

Presenting as speakers Dr. Walter E. Smith, Vice-President of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers an engineer for General Electric, and Dr. M. L. Manning of Westinghouse were studious activities. Recreation included creating startling effects for unaware visitors of Engineers' Day who lit neon lights, ordinary lamps, and headlights with their bare hands to their own mystification and the E.E.'s amusement, and exchanging entertainment with the Home Economics group . . . Founded at University of Nevada in 1923 the association has two meetings a month, and is largely instrumental in maintaining student contact with large developments in the electrical field.

Mechanical Engineers

The Mechanical Engineers opened the school year with their fifth semi-annual banquet, following it with regularly scheduled discussion, lecture, social and motion-picture featured meetings. Happiest event of year was move into new Engineering building shared with the Civil Engineers . . . Novel and excellently planned room-wide miniature train track and course including trestle, grade, under-crossing and over-crossing, and bridging was a highlight of Engineers' Day exhibits.

Chemistry Club

HAROLD KLING, President

The Chemistry Club and the Nevada chapter of the student affiliates of the American Chemical Society were combined into one organization this year, raising standards, and restricting membership to those actually interested in chemistry. Monthly meetings featured such guest speakers as Professor Arthur Knudsen of Albany, New York, medical college, and Dr. John Yoe, head of the chemistry department of the University of Virginia. A colored film and lecture on "Wood Preservation" completed presentations. Ten members were sent to the Sacramento conclave of the group for the first time . . . Public attractions were exhibits and experiments shown and performed for visiting crowds at the Homecoming celebration and on Engineers' Day.

The Crucible Club, composed of approximately ninety per cent of the students enrolled in the Mackay School of Mines, brought student members in closer contact with one another and, with experienced mining men outside the campus, through visits to the Getchell mine and mill near Winnemucca, and presentation of such speakers as Val de Camp, mining engineer with much experience here and in South America, who spoke about "Mining in High Altitudes" . . . Final phase of the year's work was the annual banquet honoring graduating senior members, each of whom was presented with a gift.

Commerce Club

WESLEY SCHLAGER, President

Organized to promote interest in and knowledge of successful business methods, the Commerce Club is open to all students of economics or business . . . Bi-monthly meetings feature speakers from the group of business men in Reno, and the bay area, discussion of economic curves and trends, and social affairs, par example the spring picnic . . . Under direct supervision of the economics department, the organization has proved to be one of the most valuable of the undergraduate groups.

Beginning in 1933 with eight students interested in the development of art appreciation, Fine Arts has grown to a powerful body, endeavoring to further campus art. Exhibits held in the Library every six weeks include the work of university art classes, Reno artists, and California art institutes. This year's exhibits showed oils, pastels, photographs, water colors, and charcoal drawings . . . Mrs. Helen Joslin, head of the art department, has been a most able and willing consultant and advisor to the group.

Opening the fall semester with a tea to honor incoming freshman Home Economics students, the Sarah L. Lewis Club, homemaking group, continued its usual busy year with a speaker, Mrs. Alice Addenbrooke, telling of her recent trip to Puerto Rico; treasure-hunt party for Aggie students; Homecoming exhibits, Christmas party; luncheon meetings, with speakers, Mrs. Eunice Griffith, infirmery matron, and Gladys Wycoff, national treasurer from Washington, D. C.; complete and detailed Engineers' Day displays, and climaxing picnic; Senior banquet and Mackay Day luncheon planned, prepared and served under direction of the club president . . . Election to Sigma Sigma, national honorary fraternity, is highest recognition attainable, this year given to Mildred Rigg'e, Mrs. Addenbrooke, Viva Leonard and Rose Miles.

Ski Club

Ski heil! And again the season for the bi-monthly meetings of those enthusiasts inhabiting the Nevada campus. Advantages of membership include lectures and lessons offered by experts; movies shown of skiing, and several excursions to the nearby Sierras where, this year, a new tow system at Grass Lake greatly enhanced the efforts taken in behalf of the annual Winter Carnival for which members of the group test the runs and jumps, and mark competitive courses.

Y.W.C.A.

MARIANNE LOCKRIDGE, President

Stressing world service, the Y.W.C.A. campus chapter sponsored such worth-while projects as the World Student Service Fund drive, the annual Hallowe'en party for the orphans, and all phases of Red Cross activity, the accomplishing of which was the theme for many meetings . . . An innovation was the giving of freshman teas, getting such speakers as Mrs. Dorothy Romaine, Reno business woman, Dr. Young, university psychologist, and such novelties as the Gottschalk marionette plays . . . For the first time in the history of the chapter, the club president was sent as a delegate to the national convention held this year at Oxford, Ohio. Three delegates were sent to the west coast convention which was held at Santa Cruz, California.

Aggie Club

New entrance into Engineers' Day festivities, for participation in which they won the first award plaque; sponsoring the Homecoming celebration dance, and felling the historic elm on the campus were chief Aggie projects. Other activities included "watermelon bust" in the fall; presenting Otto R. Schulz, extension soil conservationist, as guest speaker at a meeting; sending two delegates to the national conclave, Don Chapman and Verl Hendrix; and sending six students to the grand national livestock exposition in San Francisco. Most persistent and laudable effort of the group is its attempt to regain the farm. Last year's defeat through gubernatorial veto only has spurred action in this behalf.

Math Club

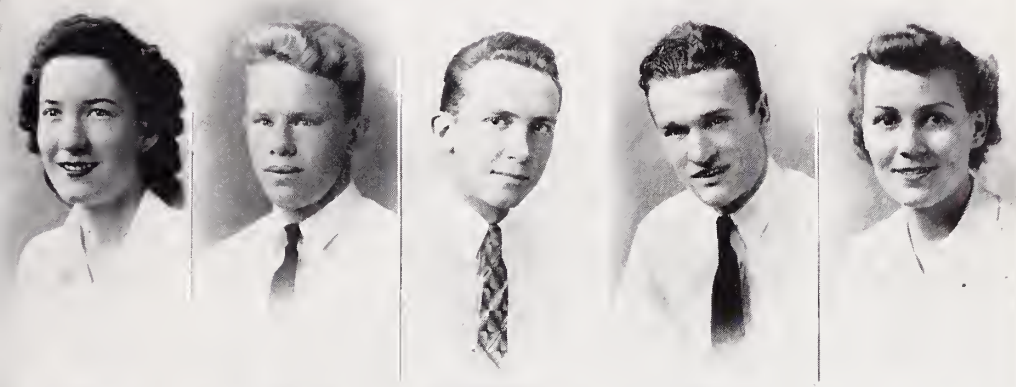

With a membership of all those majoring or minoring in mathematics, or interested in the science, the club sponsors lectures, discussions, and demonstrations in the field, as well as short historical talks alternating with social meetings. Meetings are held bi-monthly in the Mackay Science Building . . . Feature of social year is annual picnic held this fall at Bowers, and well attended by enthusiastic faculty as well as student members.

Alpha Epsilon Delta

The 1942 Social Hygiene Day program of Reno was sponsored by the Nevada chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-medical fraternity. The initiation of nine members, plus a lecture on "Military Medicine" by Major Dwight Hood, were the other activities of the year . . . The speaker for Social Hygiene Day was Dr. Byron G. Athletic Control

Meeting more often than any other campus committee, the Board of Athletic Control must make final decisions on all athletics. This year's problem was making greatly decreased budget cover essential current expenses and, although no definite crises arose, much close figuring brought the program out on top.

Returning to "big time" football for the first time in six years, the University of Nevada's Wolf Pack, although losing four of its scheduled games, showed exceptional strength throughout the season, but was never able to utilize its power at the right time, nor could Coach Aiken get full team-strength . . . In the first game of the season, the team ran away with Cal Poly on Mackay field, 32 to 0. It was in this game that Marion Motley, giant Negro mentioned on various All-American selections, suffered a hip injury that was to hamper him most of the season . . . In the next tilt, Nevada met the University of San Francisco Dons in what proved to be one of the best games of the season. The Wolves led, 3 to 0, until the fourth quarter, when a San Francisco pass into the end-zone proved fatal to Nevada's hopes of upsetting the favored Dons on their home grounds. The final score was 7 to 3 . . . The Wolves next flew to Tucson, Arizona, where they met defeat at the hands of a strong University of Arizona eleven . . . In the annual Homecoming game, Nevada, a pre-game favorite, lost to Fresno, 6 to 3, in one of the most disappointing contests played last fall . . . Still without the help of Motley at his best, they edged out a 7-to-0 win over Santa Barbara State in the third home game . . . Flying to Albuquerque for their second air trip, which carried them 6200 miles on both air jaunts, the Pack again met defeat at southern hands, this time 26 to 7 . . . Playing virtually the same Spartan team that dumped them, 30 to 7, the year before, Nevada pulled one of the biggest upsets of the season when they won over the San Jose eleven, 21 to 19. Motley, in shape for the first time since the Cal Poly game, ran the ball back on a kickoff 105 yards, the longest run recorded in the United States in 1941. Joyous Nevada fans rushed onto the field after the game and knocked the Mackay field goal posts to the ground . . . Falling back into the sluggish form so often shown, Nevada was held by the underdog Cal Aggies to a 14-to-14 tie in the last encounter of the Pack season. The game was played on the Aggie field in Davis . . . Noteworthy was the playing of co-Captains Wes Goodner and Wes Schlager. These two linemen played exceptionally steady football throughout the season . . . The Nevada team was scheduled to have traveled 12,850 miles throughout the season to make them the highest traveling team in the United States, but a game with the University of Hawaii in Honolulu in December was cancelled, cutting 4000 miles from the total.

With only fourteen men with which to build a team the Cub Squad turned in a record of one win and two losses. The team was one of the most impressive yearling clubs seen on the Mackay field in years . . . In the first game, the frosh traveled to Auburn, Calif., and won from the Placer J. C., 12 to 0. In their next encounter, and only home game, they faced a team from Cedar City, Utah. Lack of reserves caused the Cub team to bow to the powerful visitors by a 23-to-20 score. Meeting Salinas J. C. on the latter's grounds, the fighting freshmen again went down, this time 26-13 . . . Freshman Bob Robinett (no relation to the coach) was the power in the backfield, while Wise, Parish and Talcott in the line stopped many an opponent.

With an initial turnout of nineteen men, the 1941-42 basketball year got under way despite various uncertainties brought up by the war and draft. Although good spirit and plenty of team cooperation was evinced throughout the season, the Wolf Pack squad finished a disastrous year with fifteen losses and one victory—the last game, with San Jose State, which probably was the final game to be played in the old Nevada gymnasium.

Going by this record, it would seem that Nevada played the poorest ball in the history of the school's basketball teams. THIS WAS NOT THE CASE. Such hard losses as the 37-to-35 one to Cal. Aggies, the 54-to-51 defeat at the hands of San Jose State, the 34-to-31 and 57-to-49 games dropped to San Francisco State and a 49-to-41 edging from Chico prove.

In high scoring, Melarkey, with 145 total points, and Sorensen, with 84 total points, were runners-up for the honors of the play . . . Among those to be here for the next season will be veterans Mentaberry, Mastroianni, Graves, Sorensen, Hardy and Paille . . . so here's to the Nevada 1943 Pack!

Frosh Basketball

With a schedule of games which gave them a score of eight wins, the 1942 frosh basketball squad completed one of the most successful seasons in years. These wins included a thumping 60-39 victory over Stewart and a 47-29 win over Lassen Junior College to bring their season's record to eight . . . Rogers, Curless, Wise and Bell were responsible for most of the scoring throughout the season . . . In games with prep fives, the frosh won five cage contests, taking Yerington High School 42-36, Lovelock High School by a score of 35-20, and Carson with a net total of 29-27, one of the closest games of the season. Other victories were a 27-23 overtime victory over Reno High and a 38-5 trouncing for Fallon . . . Frosh flashes included Ciari, Wise, Cohen, Ast, Eliades, Kalegeorgevich, Curless, Bradshaw, Bradford and Brace.

Opening the season with the first track win in seven years, the Wolf Pack cindermen were off to a flying start. The first meet, at Davis, California, gave the Nevada team an 81-to-50 victory over the Cal. Aggies. Coach Jim Bailey's Wolves, although handicapped by the loss of sprinters McNabney and Hardy, and distance man Mastroianni, rolled up eight first-place victories and tied for two other firsts.

Seaborn was a double victor in the hurdles, topping the high timbers in 15.7, and running the low hurdles in 25 . . . Other winners were Tognoni, second, and Frey, third, in the two-mile; Sorensen second in the high hurdles; Edsall and Polish, second and third in the broad jump; Sorensen, third in pole

Nevada's ski team regained the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate ski championship this year after a two-year lapse. Winning the crown for the first time since 1939, the six-man squad proved far superior to opponents from top Pacific Coast schools . . . Sweeping all Winter Carnival opponents, they annexed a total of 395.15 points in the slalom, jumping, down-hill and cross-country events at Grass Lake in the sixth annual tournament, February 14 and 15. Closest rival was University of California with 379.39 points.

Two weeks later the team compiled 394.9 points to win the Pacific Coast title at Yosemite. Nelson won the P.C.I.S.U. jumping crown by placing first in this event. Bechdolt took second place in down-hill and jump, and third place in the slalom, while Wetzel placed third in the cross-country.

One remaining meeting, the Vanderbilt Cup tournament on the Donner summit, sponsored by the University of California, promises a third trophy for the Nevada showcase . . . Members of the team, Bill Bechdolt, Ashley Baker, Jerry Wetzel, Bill Nelson, Duane Ramsey and Barnes Barry, under direction of Coach Scrugham, earned year's laurels for the top minor sport.

Alfred Mills cracks down on it

Proving an increasingly popular addition to the minor sport group, horseshoes took its place near the top. Beta Kappa's ace, George Moore, topped events.

Sigma Nu's baseball is the real McCoy

George Moore, horseshoe champ, proves his prowess

Baseball started with a bang in fall semester, starting both the general and the intermural fight, and continued its activity in spring semester to "bring home the bacon" for the Taus, although Sigma Nu team was a strong second-place contender.

Now in its fifth year, and growing in popularity, wrestling, one of the more important minor sports at Nevada, is making striding progress. Coached by Larry Crew, himself a student, the team has had several matches, including exhibitions given for "Sport Night," Red Cross benefit show. Although slowed by threatened budget removal, the team planned and worked, and when minor sports were allowed usual funds, turned in a good record.

Intramural

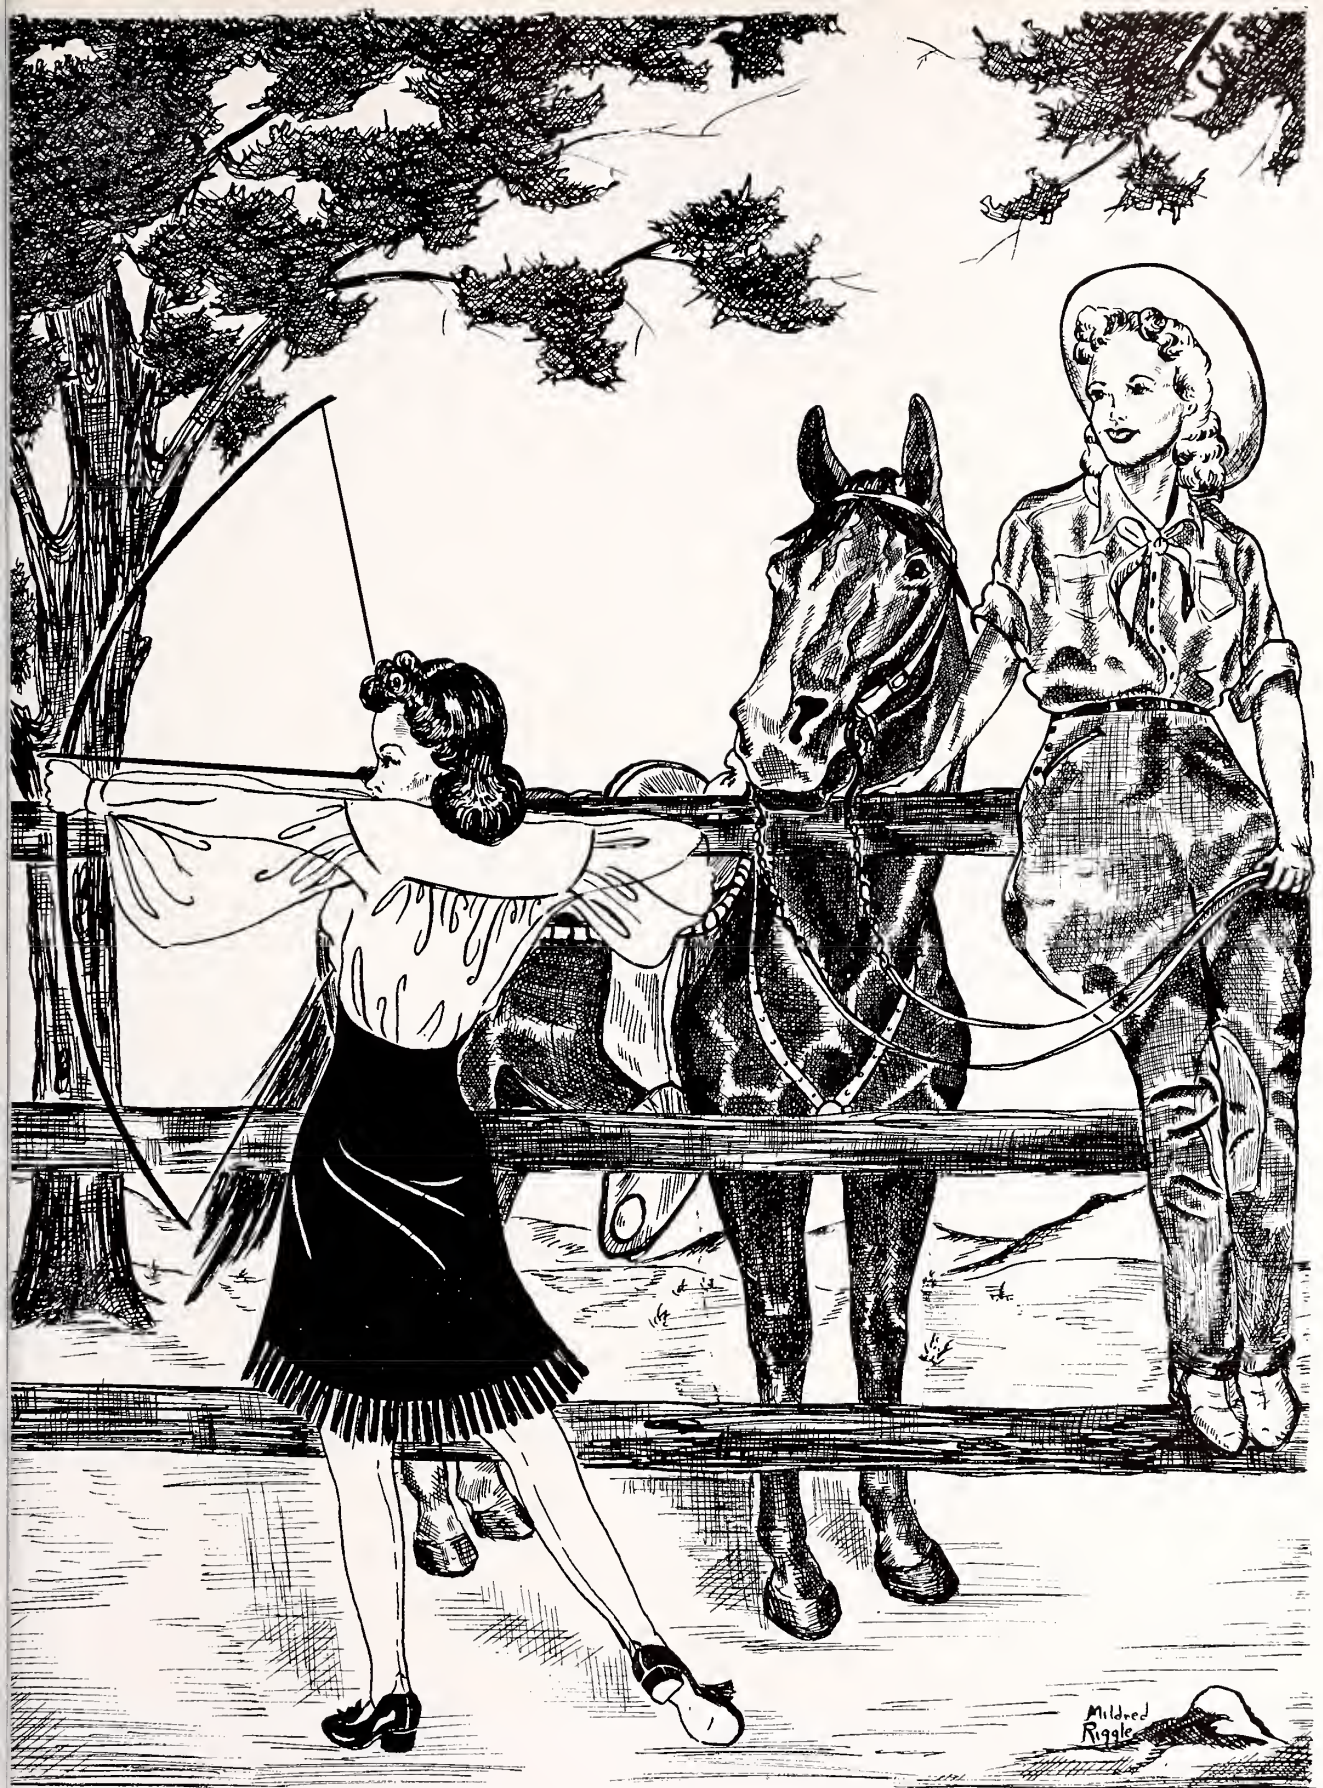

Intramural ski champions Ashley Van Slyck, Chelton Leonard and Barnes Barry, who took honors for Sigma Nu by amassing a total of 294.95 points for team honors; close second was S.A.E. with 294.45 points

In a year of great emphasis on athletics, the intramural program was pointed by heated racing for coveted Kinnear Trophy, won by Alpha Tau Omega in the final scoring . . . S.A.E. rolled to the hoop championship with a clean slate of wins, with Lambda Chi in second place. In handball, Lambda Chi and the Taus split honors, with Willie Etchemendy and Johnny Gabrielli as high men. Sigma Nu skiers Van Slyck, Leonard and Berry, collected interfrat skiing honors for their house. Homecoming cross-country race, always a feature event, again was won by the Beta Kappas, with Tognoni crossing first to a clear-cut victory. Polish and Moore of the Taus collected horseshoe doubles title for the house, with Lambda Chi in second, while Lambda Chi took volley-ball cup in a three-way playoff with A.T.O. and Sigma Nu. Tennis doubles found Sigma Nu leader with Alpha Tau Omega and Lincoln Hall Association close.

Crowning achievement of W.A.A. activity for the 1941-42 year was sending four delegates to the national convention in Boston. Harriet Morrison, Mary Kathryn Carroll, Florence Alexander and Miss Ruth Russell made the trip . . . Newest activity added to W.A.A. schedule was roller skating, from which sports ballets were presented at President's Birthday Ball and the Spring Carnival. University dancers invited male students to join and many programs were presented for public entertainment . . . Fall horseshow, first held for several years, displayed excellent equestrienne ability, and furnished new Saddle and Spur material. Archery crown was again won by Mildred Riggle, last year's high scorer . . . Two fall get-togethers and a spring award banquet were held to increase interest in membership, and the physical fitness program for national defense furnished a large incentive to increased athletic activity. Officers for the year were Harriet Morrison, president; Mary Kathryn Carroll, vice-president, Jean Clawson, secretary; Frances Hawkins, treasurer. Newly-elected officers are Mary Kathryn Carroll, Clara Beth Haley, Carmen Bergeret, and Dina Garaventa.

The Year of 1942

shall be recorded as one of the most crucial years in the history of the ARTEMISIA. The large decrease in enrollment plus adverse business conditions has had an acute effect on the size of this year's publication. However, due to the generous cooperation of the local merchants and professional leaders, this deficit was overcome, and the ARTEMISIA was published. It is to these loyal people that we, on behalf of the entire university, express our sincere and grateful thanks.

LYON COUNTY

Lyon County was named after the Civil War General, Nathaniel Lyon. The valleys of Lyon County are the most fertile in the state and are irrigated by the Walker River Project. The county is also noted for its deposits of gold and copper. It is known as the place where mining and agriculture meet.

Besides Yerington, the county seat, which has a population of over 1,100, there are many historic mining towns, such as Silver City and Dayton.

Lyon County has an area of 1,509 square miles, and a population of over 3,810. Its principal resources are livestock, agriculture, and mining. The total annual production of precious and other metals is $644,425; agriculture, $1,086,266; livestock, $1,723,927.

Elko County is the second largest in the State and third largest in the United States. It embraces an area equal to the combined states of Connecticut, Delaware, Rhode Island and New Jersey. It is one of the richest agricultural counties in the nation, having several times ranked first in the nation in the value of its products. Formerly an important mining region with such camps as Tuscarora, Cornucopia, Midas, Sprucemont, Aura, Columbia, Mountain City and Jarbridge; at the present time, Mountain City is the boom mining town of Nevada. Its mineral production is still of considerable importance. In the Ruby Mountains, the largest and most rugged mountain mass in Nevada, can be found some of the finest scenery in the state. The livestock industry in Elko County includes cattle raising, sheep raising, as well as considerable production of thoroughbred horses. Elko, the county seat, is ideally located, being situated on two transcontinental railroads and one transcontinental highway. The population is approximately ten thousand, while the City of Elko slightly exceeds four thousand.

In Appreciation

With a final sigh of relief—tinged, too, with regret—the 1942 edition of the ARTEMISIA was relinquished to the eager—nay, grasping—hands of the much-worried printer. Only task remaining before the staff is that of placating the student body with the bromide: It'll be out—eventually! Due to war, rising prices, lowering generosity, bad economic cycle, and the usual ups-and-downs, the task was tedious and seemingly impossible, but the job was enlivened and made more of a pleasure by the companionable, cooperative attitude of the business and editorial staffs. To all the members of the staff goes our heartfelt gratitude for the best in work and effort. Thanks also go: To the sponsors and advertisers who made this book possible . . . To the photographers who made the pictures for us, and especially to Pauline Westover who pinch-hit so willingly for Ned . . . To Mildred Riggle for the art work which gave the book a beautiful running theme . . . To Harry Frost for all the time, interest, and resource he gave in backing our effort . . . To "Bill" Shipaugh, "our conscience," for his really swell help in every possible way . . . To Mr. Lane, who saved our lives more than once, and worked out the beautiful new process, used on the end sheets for the first time . . . To Mr. Goodner, the studio photographer, who spared no thought or touch which would make the panels excellent . . . To Sam Babcock and the Molloy Cover Company, for their unflagging interest and assistance . . . and, finally, to the administration, Dr. Hartman, and Professor Hill for their guiding and encouragement.
